

ACTIVATING HIGHER CONSCIOUSNESS IN ALL LEADERS

June 18, 2014

Tonight's activation is a quantum one because as we do this the effects ripple out to what is happening in our reality right now. And tonight's activation is on activating higher consciousness within all of those in leadership, whether we're talking about governments, religion, corporations, school systems, leaders in our society. But not just activating higher consciousness in those kinds of leaders, but it also, in turn, activates leadership with all of us...all of those who are listening. Because as we move forward and leave 3-D further and further behind, what's required is a new version of leadership and a new version and function of leaders. And that quality is in each and every one of us. Right, Franco?

Franco

Absolutely!

What leaders are, really...well, first of all, there really are no leaders per se because, like you were saying, we are fully in charge of our own guidance in our path and the creation of our reality. However, we have also created the illusion and the different role players to have what we call a leadership role. But a true leadership role, in a sense, is a quantum viewer, a visionary, someone who plays a role to take what the collective sees as being beneficial, and then they would actually just play out...or take the steps to have certain things play out...so that it serves. So that's what's really taking place.

Now, this evening what we're going to do...because there's been a big call that's been coming in...and the reason that this conversation, this big activation is being done this evening is because of what's been showing up behind the scenes. The leaders, or the so-called ones in a leadership role...which is really just a role...have felt very heavy in the sense of playing the role...because their energy is shifting....and the environmental energy around them. So whatever they are doing or have been doing to maintain that status or that operating system is becoming so much more difficult for them to operate within. And they are at a point where they are choosing for us to say, "OK, let's come as one unit now, as Oneness, and let's create realities and opportunities to set a new path," so that they can be relieved from the roles that they are playing.

You'll also notice that everything that is playing out is becoming so much more blatant and so much more obvious, so much more intensified in the sense that you can actually see the roles...to the point that you would have to be completely in a trance to not see the calling forth and saying, "See this! Look at it! Don't come in and judge what I'm role-playing; rather I want you to see the roles that we are playing only so that we can come to the realization that now we're done with this role and we can shift into letting that part of the role go." So, in a sense, they're saying, "Look! Look! Look!!! We're making it so obvious and giving you so many hints and making it so apparent on so many levels." This is the reason that you now see all the roles that are being played, all the decisions that are being made and all the different alignments that are coming about look so scattered and so chaotic, and it's so obvious that they don't want to play the role any longer.

And it's not in judgement in the sense, "Well, I'm tired of playing the role!" Rather, it's more like, "I'd like to shift too, and we'd like to create a new planet and a new reality." Now, that's at the soul level. At the mind level, it still feels in one way that it still needs to play that role to some degree...but it's also getting very tired.

So when I tune into them...and I did so because I specifically wanted to tune into the soul's ride and check on all of this and the work that was being done...when you're connecting at the level of seeing what is playing out, it is feeling very strongly that, "We'd like to get this done. We'd like to support in whatever way."

Because...again... we are still working with polarity, even though it's not necessary at the soul level to create a change within the soul itself. However...and to make it clearer...it's not a soul requirement to have polarity as part of our experience because we're done with that. That's been done (i.e. finished) for a while now. It's the necessity to use polarity...whatever remaining parts of it that are used...so that we can actually shift into our new reality...shift into our true reality.

So part of this is really dissolving the matrix and all the other parts that are operating within the matrix itself. Because all of this right now is all part and parcel of the transformations that are going in and the disassembling that's taking place.

So, in essence, it became a call to say, "OK, we need for you to facilitate this raising of consciousness, this activation and so forth...not only for our level but also for other souls."

Because, you have to understand...the only reason they can play the role and the only reason they are kind of held in place...and when I say "held in place" it's not in the sense that it's against their will but rather in the sense that they are "in service" at the soul level...it's like they're saying, "OK, we're held here in service because we have agreed to be of service by playing this role because the collective is still utilizing it to some degree."

The Activation that we are going to be doing now is to create an awakening, a consciousness shifting on a collective scale so that it is no longer required that they continue to play the role.

It's not about "bad" or "good", who's wrong or who's right, or anything of that nature. It's just about role playing and playing the polarity role until it no longer serves.

And so the Activation that we're going to be playing with is to activate that operating system that we've already been encoded with...to not only self-empowerment, but really self-realization...self-realization of our own creation and our own reality of creation at a level where it's not even an empowerment...we call it "empowerment" because that's just the way we understand it...but it is, in a sense, realizing that, "I'm everything that is. I am the Source Creator here and I'm now going to create a new reality because I'm done with the other reality."

And it's not done in the sense that, "I'm fed up with it!"; it's done because we're done. It's done because we don't need it any longer. It no longer aligns with what we are creating as our new playground.

So that gives you a little taste of it, Antonia, but we can play with it some more.

Antonia

Yes. And we're at that point...and we're talked about it in the past...where up until about a year and a half ago the option was still there for us to kind of self-destruct. But we passed that. And we've been playing a fast catch-up role and waking up a lot of consciousness. And one of the programs that had been left behind was what has been referred to as World War III which would have been using the players of the Christians versus the Muslims. That was going to be the chess game that was going to be played out. And there are still remnants of this being played behind the scenes. As Franco said, the players who have signed up to do it are still kind of playing these things through.

So with tonight's Activation...what we're doing is we are tuning into all leaders worldwide. We're re-kindling, we're re-awakening, we're shedding intense light on at the mind level so that it re-awakens the fact that this option or that path of gain is no longer in service to humanity...and we're basically shutting that down.

So it's a really powerful call tonight, and I do encourage those listening to this to pass it around so it can reach as many people as possible. Because as we do this Activation more and more and more, what we are doing is making that light stronger and stronger and stronger and stronger.

So this is a really big one. And I'm excited that we are doing this tonight.

Franco

The other thing I wanted to mention is your observation...and this has come up for quite a few people and I wanted to assist in bringing some clarity around that... If you observe, one of the things you will notice that in a way things still seem like they are heading along the same path we were on before. And we're also looking at the decisions that are being made by different industry leaders and different so-called leadership or whatever you want to call it...even our family members and so forth...whoever you are interacting with....are seemingly taking very similar paths to what they did before...almost like nothing has really changed in the sense of what they are playing out. If you observe it, you will notice that as you are creating a shift within yourself, that you will pay attention to it a little more and see how it actually is completely polarized...but at the same time, how the role is being played out so that we can actually complete that part of it.

Because this is one of the things that I hear from others who say that everything is still heading the direction it was headed. But you'll notice that, although everything looks that way, everything is unsettled...not just energetically but also in how things are unfolding. Even if a decision is made and things start heading out in that direction, you will notice that there's a lot of different things that will shift along the way.

But pay attention...not to judge it...but pay attention to it in the sense of seeing, "Ah! I am now the observer." And as the observer, notice if anything triggers within yourself. At the same time, "As the observer I am now free to change what I observe. And I change it only to bring it to the highest order of my new state of being." And you do that just in the presence of observing...with no judgment. Because the moment you are doing that you are powerfully reinforcing that shift in consciousness and powerfully forcing the old structures to dissolve so they can no longer be maintained.

When we carry judgment the polarity may intensify for a period of time only to bring up more of what we can call frustration (or whatever you want to call it) in the sense that it sees that we are still...

Because many of us would love to see this thing complete...just step into it...and you've mentioned it many times, Antonia, "Let's flick the switch and we're there in our new reality, our new world," ...that is, completely in 5th Dimensional consciousness...a world that does not require the games that we are playing at this time...to be in that free state, that playful state, that expanded state...that state where we create a reality where there is no "haves" and "have-nots", no lack or anything of that nature...and none of the restrictions and games that we've played up to now, which are not, in a sense, what we can see as being in alignment with what we want to now create. So we would like to see everything shift. As much as all of that is possible and can be done instantaneously, it isn't done that way because of the fact that we are still utilizing it.

So, in essence, through that observation, through the sense of saying, "OK, I see and I observe and I see what's going on here." And when you're in that neutral state of Creator Essence...which you always already are...but you are now accessing that part and you start to shift not only your consciousness.... Because as you shift your consciousness...and this is how beautiful this....as you no longer judge, as you no longer see right/wrong, good/bad in any of it, and you bring that new level of clarity within yourself and you are in that state of neutrality, you are emitting that...and that is causing a powerful ripple effect in completing a lot of the old worlds, a lot of the old energies, a lot of the old programs that have played out...rather than taking a defensive or offensive state where you're going to fight it or flight from it, or something of that nature....

So part of the process this evening is to stimulate our own observational aspect, stimulate our own consciousness.

Because, again...remember...the reality around us and all the leaders and every role that everyone is playing is all being co-created within all of us. And ultimately, we are projecting and supporting that projection in the same band of frequency. Even though we have made a shift, there is still a part of us that's supporting it...not because of the fact that we may still need it to a degree...but we are being of service to a certain degree to allow other aspects of ourselves...other people, other souls on the planet in people form...to complete what they need to complete. So, in essence, we are still fully in charge and fully engaged in the dance that's playing out around us.

And, again...when we're looking at the soul level there is no judgement. When we're looking at the soul level it's not about, "Oh, my God! I'm tired of this!" or whatever it is. It's more like, "OK, let's bring this to completion. This is our task right now. This is our new state of being."

Because you know we talk about "purpose" and we talk about "what's our purpose?" Our purpose really, on a bigger scale, on a truer scale of why we're actually here...yes, we're here to play, we're here to learn and we're here to experience. But we're also here at this specific time to create a powerful shifting.

And through this shifting there's a massive amount of learning, a massive amount of expansion, a massive amount of completion and alignment that is taking place.

So within this physicality not only are we experiencing, many, many, many lifetimes' worth of experience and completion, but we are also creating new forms of reality that we're never even stepped in before...at such a pace now, that change is happening in massive amounts in short periods of time.

So that is part of our "purpose": to gain whatever we can gain and also to create the environment so that this whole collective playground and schoolyard and all the beautiful facets of ourselves move forward to the next level.

And the thing is, even if all of them don't...because not all of them have come here to do so...they will still get whatever they need to get and then they will move on to engage in another reality of non-form for a period of time, and then into another reality. However, their presence here, for whatever term and in whatever form and in whatever role is all perfect. Because there is nothing out of alignment or out of sync.

The thing is, as much as the world looks crazy and looks as if it's falling apart, it is still in perfection. It is still the playground, it is still the schoolyard that we are now upgrading and transforming and creating a new reality within it...which will match our True Essence.

When we're coming from that state, we are much more engaged and coming from a much more powerful empowered state...because you're coming in in a Source state in a physical form and then the shifting is actually done a lot easier...instead of coming in a dis-empowered state.

And you have to understand...even the leadership roles...the only reason they exist and we feel "enslaved" ...because people talk about that a lot, saying "we're slaves!" ...in actual fact, we have never been slaves. We've played the role of saying, "Someone has power over me and I have no choice and no say and I'm not really in charge of my life." And that may be the case in the playing of that particular role. But it's never been the truth. It's never been the actual state. And by you engaging in any of that, you actually have to have power in order to be able to do so (laughs)...because you've empowered yourself to play that role. Again, at the soul level, that role is just a role.

So, as much as we look at the systems that are in place and we say, "We're just slaves to the system!" ...the system creates an opportunity for us to feel that way or to engage in it or for us to feel dis-empowered in that 3-D world that we've been playing with up to this point in time...but, again, we are always in charge of being able to choose to play that role or not, at any point in time. So the moment that we are done with it...and, like I said before, not "done" at the ego mind level from the perspective of "I'm done with this and I don't want this anymore! I want something else!" ...rather, it is done at the soul completion state...so you will never feel as a slave.

Because you will notice that anyone...and I'm sure you have connected with others or whatever...whenever you get to the point where your consciousness has expanded and you are now more connected to your Essence, you will notice that there's no such thing as a slave. You can't even feel yourself as one. You either participate in a role playing...or not. You are either in the dance...

And even if you are in the dance and you say, "OK, I don't need to be in this dance but the dance is still being perpetuated around us," at one level or another you can say, "OK, I'm going to continue to participate to assist other aspects of myself because of the role playing that I'm doing." And the beauty of it is that, as you are going through it and your consciousness expands, and you are changing and shifting the way that you see things, you are also uploading that...so that on the collective scale it becomes more accessible to more souls and it accentuates their transformation.

So yes, the mandate here is to shift and upgrade and so forth. But also, the biggest part of the mandate is to complete everything that we want to complete at the soul level that we haven't been able to complete in other lifetimes that we've had...and also things that we've created through the lineages and genetic pools and whatever else that we've taken on as part of it. And so we are choosing to do that.

And now we are going to the next step...which is basically what we're going to do this evening...which is to activate...because the energies and the Source Codes are available and are already there...and I've been using them at the soul level to create these upgrades. But now tonight we're going to do it on a collective scale...and we're going to empower all the souls who are going to participate now and at a later date (when listening to the replay). And each and every time you choose to participate (by listening to the Activation), you only reinforce it, expand it and make it much more powerful. And then all the structures that are dense in energy and are not fluid...because density doesn't flow as easily...they will become less dense...and the more easily they will flow.

And what does "flow" mean? It means flowing with change, flowing with new creations, flowing with every part of whatever we're playing with. We're not holding onto things.

And this is one of the things that came up, too, was the fact that many, many souls on the planet are holding on "for dear life", in a sense, holding onto the experience of the old ways of being. Because there's this whole idea of, "This is all I know and what would it look like without it!" So there's still a very powerful part of that that's playing out. And all the stuff that's playing out right now...all the intensification and so forth...and all the role playing...is just supportive for people to get to the point of letting go and just really flowing with the change.

Because again...as we continue to flow, things will change even more quickly.

We are now being induced to flow, in a sense, because we can't hold on and it's becoming more and more difficult to hold on. And people who still do hold on and are playing that particular role, inasmuch as they may not be as consciously aware of what's playing out around them...they just think that life is just tough or whatever it is...there is still a very powerful push within themselves to flow and to release all the stuff that's been attached to them.

Because again...even with all the role playing, there's a lot of energy that is still quite stagnant in holding onto the status quo. We love change...in a way...but it's in measure, you know (laughs). It's not change to just "let it be." It's about change where you say, "OK, I'm ready to take the baby steps and then I'm going to feel it out and I'm going to experience how much it feels..." It's like somebody who is about to do bungee jumping, for example, but they start with the little things like maybe a trampoline because they might not be feeling that, "I'm just going to go for it!" But at some point they choose and they say, "OK, I'm just going to jump. I'm going to take the leap...and let it be,"...have that experience...jump out of the airplane or whatever it may be. It's where they say, "OK, I'm just going to let it go and watch it unfold...let the experience unfold!"

The thing is, each and every one of us will have exactly the experience we need to have, when we need to have it.

And that "need" is not a neediness, but rather it is a need in the sense of what is beneficial. So we can take out the word "need" and say what is "beneficial."

For example...and I'm not going to mention any names but someone recently said, "Well, I have the genetic coding which would indicate that I could present with cancer in my body. So I'm going to go and have all these operations and remove all this stuff, even though I don't have cancer yet." But, in a sense, when you come to the observational aspect of it, it doesn't matter what you do. It doesn't matter if you take out every part of it...if you need that particular experience and if you are in that state of consciousness that needs to have that come forth, you will create it...no matter what...even if it comes in a different form.

So there's no step that you can take on the physical plane in a 3-D fear state that will guarantee that you won't have an experience you require.

The only time an experience requirement will change is when we get to that state of consciousness where it no longer serves us, there's no longer any benefit and there's no true movement that will be created within it. So you could turn around and say, "Well, I've got this ailment in my body and the ailment will be there as long as it serves. When it no longer serves, it will shift."

The same way that we all have codes to have particular experiences. We are all exposed to an environment...which, again, is a 3-D world where it still plays out that we need to have all these various codes for these things to play out and have all these various intensities and things playing out in our body...but it will happen to only the ones that need it, when they need it...and if it serves them, it will be activated within them regardless of whatever.

And that is not a punishment, not a "bad" choice thing...because a lot of people say, "Well, I made bad choices...I smoked, I did whatever," right? Yes, some of those choices play out a specific role and state of consciousness...because any addiction has a state of consciousness attached to it. But, again, that state of consciousness comes as a tool for you to create a shift within yourself. Once you've done that shift, you can easily transform. That state of consciousness has the possibility to create an event or an illness of some sort because of the addiction that plays out...but that illness or whatever that plays out is only to create a shift within yourself. It really wasn't so much the addition part...but the addiction reflected the state of consciousness that needed to be completed, experienced and transformed into something different...or stepped out of completely. One follows the other, type of thing.

So somebody can have an addiction, for example, but, in essence, the only reason the next phase will play out is if it is beneficial...because the addiction might be all that is required and then it comes to the end where it no longer serves.

So I wanted to further clarify that point to emphasize that it doesn't really matter the steps that we take in the 3-D fear world and so forth to "protect" ourselves...again these are all illusionary things because we don't really need protection...but to take steps to say, "Well, I will alleviate any potentiality of something happening."

Remember...if you're coming in from a fear state, it's just going to project that you still have fear. If you're coming from that fear state, you're going to create things that will reinforce it...so that you get out of the fear state.

And it's not so much just getting out of the fear state, but rather all the programs that are attached to it. So all of that plays out in that respect.

So it's a matter of consciousness. So it doesn't matter all the roles that are being played around us...with all the different leaders and so forth...they are just playing a role, and it's just for us to observe and to complete our part of it.

Antonia

I was just thinking back to your comment about the body...I think it's good to point out two different areas. If you are doing something for the body out of fear: "I have to have this because I don't want to get cancer!" then that's one mindset. But if you are doing something for the body, "OK, I'm doing something for the body because I would like to assist it to function better," and being in the neutral position of, "What can I do for my body to assist it?"...as opposed to coming from fear. So there are two very different way of going at it. One is, "My body is here and I want to take care of it. If there are certain things that help the body function better...then I want to do that." Maybe it might be the foods that I put in my body...things like that. So I just wanted to make that point clear.

Living in the world in which we live, yes, there's always things that feel better. If you are eating foods that are closer to nature, your body does tend to feel better. And if you're making that kind of decision because you are feeling drawn to it and you feel good, then go for it. But if you're doing it out of fear, like Franco was saying, doing it because, "I have to have organics!" or "I have to have this or that because I don't want to get sick," then that's fear.

So I'm just kind of trying to bring up a bit of discernment on the why and how you feel drawn to do something. If you are feeling drawn to eat raw, organic or more vegetables or whatever it may be for you...cleaner water, or whatever it is...if you are coming at it from the neutral state of, "I'd like to assist my body out of love," then go for it and do it.

Franco

Absolutely...excellent point. I'm glad that you expanded on that because, in essence, that's true. The body will...

We live on a planet and various things on the planet are just vibrational codes which will enhance our state of being and the functionality of the body itself. So as we are creating a shift within ourselves you will also notice that you will feel guided to consume different foods which are closer to nature.

Now...you have to understand...the closer to nature it is, the more vibrational alignment there is. Remember...the planet itself...if you allow nature to be in its natural state before you transform it or do anything to it, in essence, the vibration is actually increasing because of the vibration of the soil, the water and everything else...the vibration is increasing...even though there are some things that are playing out that will so-called "contaminate" it or take it from its pristine state. So, in essence, what occurs is that, if you allow yourself to follow your own body's requirements in the sense where you are led to consume cleaner foods and elements that are closer to their natural state, it will only accentuate and complement the physicality and it will utilize it in a way to better functionality.

But you could say, "I'm going to have the cleanest water and I'm going to eat the purest food and so forth because I don't want to get sick!"...that will not, in one way or another, get you to step outside of a particular experience. Because you've already heard or seen or know of people who have lived what they call a "clean life," in a sense...if you want to call it that...and yet they end up having illnesses and so forth. In a sense, an experience is an experience and it's not going to be interfered with by doing any of that. In essence, yes, they may have created the environment to support the body but there was a lesson still to be learned and there was still something in there...the fear or whatever else...that needed to play out...and all of a sudden they end up having an ailment.

Because I've had people say, "Well, it was clean but now my body is starting to fall apart!"...well, it's the state of consciousness with which they are in coming into it and what is serving for them. Because the moment you realize what is coming up as these things play out, you are going to see if it's fear-based or complementary love-based where, "I'm going to complement the physicality because it is my vehicle that I'm utilizing right now to play on this planet. So I'm going to feel in alignment with it and nurture it."

The other thing is, other than the fear, it's not about making it a big project either...going all out and feeling, "I've got to do this! I've got to do this!" So it may not be fear, but you feel a "need, need, need"...again, "I need to do this in order to feel well!" Because even though that may not be so much fear related, it is still in the family, to a certain degree, and it's feeling, "I need to do all of this in order for me to move forward!" For example, "I need to do this in order to feel healthy!" or something of that nature. Again...that's just another state of consciousness that's coming through. You don't "need" anything to be in a pristine state!

And if you're going in and saying, "Well, I'm going to do anything and everything!" you know that can backfire too...because, in a sense, you're coming in from a different state of consciousness of, "Well, I don't care and I don't regard anything because the body will automatically change it." If you are exposed to something that you may not be able to get in the most pristine state, your body will change it. But if you say, "Well, I can eat and do anything I want," type of thing...and you come in with that state of consciousness, then there's two ways...coming from a certainty that, "I can do this!" but, at the same time, you're not going to give it power by saying, "Well, I'm going to test myself." But if you're coming in with the state, "I'm not affected by it...but, at the same time, I'm also going to pay attention to how the body feels or pay attention to the vibration of whatever it is I am consuming and flow with that." So there's a difference there too.

So, yes, I'm glad you brought that up, Antonia.

Antonia

We have a question coming in as follows:

“If everything that’s happening is perfect the way it is, then why are we trying to change things tonight with this activation?”

Franco

It is perfect for what it’s serving. But there are stages that we are going through where we are going to instigate further transformation and changes...it’s like the next step.

For example, we finished Grade 3. “Ok, great. That was perfect. I learned everything I could from Grade 3. Now we are going to go into Grade 4. So let’s take the next step to go into Grade 4,” ...and Grade 5...and Grade 6...and so forth. So that’s what we’re doing.

So with this, it is to activate and accentuate the next step that we are calling forth. Because this is only a response to what is being called forth.

We’re all playing different roles. And this evening we are all going to play the role to stimulate our own...

Because, the thing is, we have been downloaded a lot of codes. We have been downloaded with a lot of states of consciousness. So we are going to activate them so we can move to the next step. That’s really why we’re doing this: because of the call that we’ve made as a collective.

And there are various role-players that are saying, “OK, assist us because we can’t access that part. Help us to get some...not really ‘relief’ ...but to be able to access a little more...so that we can actually take the next step.”

You’re right...it is perfect. And I’ve said that many times, as have others. However, we are now going through another phase, another step. And we are taking the steps to activate it and take it to the next level.

Up until a couple of days ago, Antonia, we still didn’t have a subject that we were going to play with this evening. But it was from the night before...let’s call it one of my adventures...that I could see that this was being called forth. And automatically we both picked it up that that would be what was necessary for this evening.

And a calling forward...it’s like there’s a transmission which says, “OK, assist us at this point in time so that we can access what we are not able to fully access,...even though we have it all within ourselves, we are not able to access it...so that we can create another movement forward...another step forward.

Antonia

Yes, and that's actually how we create all the Q&A calls and the Clearing...often we don't know the topic until the very last minute, because we wait to see what will best assist ourselves and all of humanity right now. And, as Franco said, we always get together and we both tune in and determine what we can do right now to best assist. And, as Franco said, this is what came up from Franco's working behind the scenes on the codes of what's happening right now. And that's what we do all the time. "How can we best assist in this moment right now?" And then we let the call/clearing present. Hence the reason we announce it only a day or two beforehand. (laughs)...cause we never really know... It's not that we never really know, it's that we want to know what will currently assist right now.

Franco

Yes. We can always pick a theme along the way. However, as we are moving forward... because things are changing so quickly right now, the priority shifts. Look at how many times, Antonia, that we've prepared things in advance where we've said, "OK, in two weeks' time we are going to cover this..." and at times we've gone even longer than that, and we say, "OK, we're going to cover this." And at that point in time...and if we go back a few years ago, you will notice that we were able to stay much closer to whatever presented in advance. Because it was like, "OK, this is one of the inquiries, this is one of the things that is coming up that people would love to have some assistance with the shifting that's taking place." And usually that would play out within the time period.

What's happening now is that things are changing so quickly that the importance of various things is shifting constantly. So we have to...and we've done this even a while back...we've chosen a subject and then it has to be changed. And sometimes it would change two or three times, until a few days before, or a day before...and it would be like, "OK, this is the priority, this is the area we need to address and this is what we need to play with."

And that's kind of how we are flowing with things in regards to what's next. Especially when we are talking about Activations/Clearings. Those are very specific. They are very specific for their timing.

Even though we do it (the clearing/activation) now, they automatically upgrade as we go along and as more become ready for the next part of it. So an activation/clearing that we may have done a while ago, if listened to now, may now activate another portion of the subject matter, that it wasn't able to access before.

So we have to go with what we call "flow." And we see what comes up when it needs to come up. And if it would have changed this afternoon, then it would have changed this afternoon. Because we need to go with whatever is being called forth.

Antonia

Absolutely. A couple of years ago we would have set out an idea...usually a month or two in advance...of what we wanted to cover. And pretty much we could (cover it). But we haven't been able to do that for a very long time because everything is changing so quickly that even if we put something down the week before, when we connect it's, "Well...that's changed. That's no longer what needs to be addressed right now."

To change the subject...I saw this going around the net a lot in the past couple of days. And the question is,

"Did you hear that 11,000 cabal members went to live with the Pleiadians last week? What would be your thoughts on this claim?"

I did see that flying around and I did not get a chance to look at it or check in with it. But the claim is that 11,000 cabal members from Earth were picked up by Pleiadians. (laughs) So that was making the rounds this week with a lot of people commenting on that.

The idea is that certain members that are from a lesser, denser human experience are being exported to off-planet so that humanity's vibration can rise up faster. I don't get that sense. I'm not sure who originated the comment and where it came from. But I know I saw this being passed around a lot. I don't get that. My feeling...and I think yours too, Franco...is that those who are here are here to assist...and are here to stay to move through the shift. And there are more and more coming onto the planet to assist...but the assistance is really to kind of neutralize the interference so humanity can move forward. We've never felt that anybody is being lifted, moved, transported...so on and so forth...upgraded off-planet and then put back here...that's lever been how Franco and I have felt about this. I know that there's a lot of other people saying that's what's happening or that's what's going to happen.

But we've always felt that those that are here right now are here specifically...as we said at the beginning of this call...to play, to learn, to experience, and to create a powerful shift. And it is something that we are going through gradually, not a quick... As I keep joking, "Let's just press the button and do it!" But I say that jokingly because I know that's not going to happen (laughs). We've agreed to be here...and it is a gradual process. There's been lots of stuff going around about there being a quick, gradual switch.

So do you have anything to say about that, Franco...for example, about these 11,000 cabal members just being picked up by Pleiadians last week?

Franco

Well, in a sense, the physicalities don't leave. The souls do have the opportunity...and that seems to be more the case...to be able to be exposed to a different energy, a different consciousness so that it comes back into the body and into the role playing in a bit more expanded state...and so, in essence, their role will change.

If a physicality needs to leave the planet, then the physicality (or the soul) will leave the planet. The thing is, sometimes role players...in the cabal or wherever...may have a soul switch where a soul that has more veils will move out and another soul with fewer veils would step into the body. And that way the soul would actually have a higher consciousness...or the accessibility to a higher consciousness...and this will stimulate a change in the thought patterns in the roles that they are playing. So that is occurring.

It is occurring in the sense that there are upgrades being done at the soul level. So the souls will leave...all of our souls leave eventually anyways at different times...where it is exposed... So there has been...and this is a theme...many souls...I can't say specifically 11,000, but in a way it does seem to be the number...that have played denser roles at different levels of the pyramid...or what you call hierarchy...and the souls have left and been exposed to other dimensions with other beings...and actually given the opportunity to see and expose itself so a consciousness which is much more open. So when the souls do return back to the bodies, they then have the opportunity to create their own shift.

But as for the physicalities themselves disappearing, in essence, no. That's not... I would have noticed it, but I haven't. Behind the scenes you get to see the big picture of things, and something like that would be hard to hide, in a sense, when it comes to watching the movement on the planet of what is taking place. I'm just giving you my observation of what I've seen behind the scenes. And something like that would be much more noticeable.

But I have noticed a lot more souls have been leaving and are being exposed to higher consciousness, being exposed to other beings, being exposed to upgrades within themselves...whether it be with the Pleadians or various other races, as they have agreed to facilitate by providing that assistance.

And there's also exchanging going on where souls have left physicalities and other souls have stepped in..."drop-ins," if you want to call it that...

And we've also noticed, too, that there are also other souls who have been playing roles within the cabal have been leaving the planet with their physicalities...in the sense where they say, "OK, I'm done with this. I don't need to be here anymore." And then they leave. And so you've heard of suicides within the different levels of the chain of command, and different areas. We've also seen others leave via "accidents"...or whatever it is. But it is the soul's choice to leave.

So there's a lot of changing and movement that is happening within all the control structures that are in place. And this is what's going to facilitate a lot of the changes as we go along. And it will also facilitate the transformation...or people could call it the "disintegration" of the existing system...basically putting the old system "out of service" and then creating a new state of being.

So all of that is happening. So at that level, yes, I can say that is definitely taking place. As for the other...I have not seen anything of that nature taking place.

Antonia

And at that level...at the soul level...there's more and more of that actually happening because that's also assisting the frequency of the planet to come up and make 3rd Dimensional stuff seem even more unappealing. So that's happening on many levels...not just those in the cabal. But I think that a lot of souls have come here specifically knowing that there would be this "upgrade" so that it's easier to move forward with the shift that we're going through.

Franco

Absolutely.

With respect to the Activation this evening, it is going to be a little different with respect to how things will unfold. We're going to be calling in a lot of aspects of ourselves and we're going to be bringing in a lot of energies that will support us and we are going to align all the souls together...we're going to do this work together...we're not doing this separately. We're going to be creating an environment where all of us are participating.

And it's also open because we are going to invite all other aspects of ourselves in being states that are in non-human form and that are in a matched higher-vibrational state that is supportive of this process that we're going to go through. We're also going to invite all the souls that are off-planet that have been on the planet and that are in the process of upgrading and are working on the process of facilitating...we are bringing them forward.

We are also calling forth all the souls around the planet that are choosing to participate...even though they may not be consciously aware of it, they will feel it within themselves because the souls are bringing them in. Because we are going to be doing this bringing as a Oneness unit.

So we are going to go on a very different adventure but we are going to do this little adventure together. And we have activated this, we've put this, we've staging it...as One. Even though I may be leading the meditation/activation part, it is followed through with what we are collectively creating. So let's be ready for the adventure!

And nothing will take place that is not for our highest service, for the highest state of what we are calling forth. We're going to have exactly...and each and every soul participating will participate on a massive scale...but, at the same time, it will also have its own individualized, customized, specialized...if you want to call it all of that...upgrade of their own experience. So their whole reality will change.

The other part is that we are going to accentuate the changes within each one of you. And this will happen because your soul will call it forth to exactly the degree...so that we will actually shift on a personal level much more quickly.

The other thing is that we are going to accentuate a lot of the barriers that we've created...fear and otherwise. And when I'm talking about barriers, I'm talking about barriers of security and belief systems and so forth that we've put in and we can't let go...those things that we see in our reality around us of which we can't let go. So we're going to take down a lot of those barriers. Again...the degree to which this happens will vary depending on each individual soul.

The one thing that we are also going to do is, because we're going to work as a collective, we're going to stimulate each other, we're going to assist each other to kind of... Let's put it this way: when you have to make a decision, when you have to do something that may be a little bit more out of your comfort zone...when you're trying to do it alone, it seems to be much more difficult. But when you're doing it on a collective scale where you have a group of like-minded people...if you want to call it that...and we support each other, we stimulate each other, "Yes, it is OK. Let's do it. Let's move forward. Let's do that! Let's let go of this part," let's...whatever. So we're going to stimulate each other, we're going to assist each other and we're going to create the groundwork for one another so it will be easier for us to make those changes within ourselves...to let go of those barriers.

And to be open to the adventure of something bigger!
