

CLEARING THE ILLUSIONS OF DEBT, FEAR AND SHAME

Tonight's call is about clearing the illusions of debt, fear and shame...and it's a biggie! Franco and I had a conversation with Heather (of the OPPT) about a week ago and we indentified this as being a subject that needed addressing at this time. And it's a really, really big one for humanitysod this Clearing with be a very deep one. Franco and I have been working on this...as have Heather and other people...in the background for the past 10 days, and every time we go in to work on it we get sucked in very deeply, very fast.

Franco

Like you said, it is a big one. And when we were having a little conversation with Heather, as soon as the word "debt" was mentioned and how it was tied in, and then, of course, we chatted afterwards and it just opened up.

And you're right...I've been working on it ever since and it's bigger than I ever would have imagined. A lot of progress has been made around it, but tonight we are going to utilize all the beautiful Souls that are going to participate. Even the conversation that we're going to be having is already going to be changing the collective consciousness...and it's also going to be streaming out galactically. So there's a lot that we're going to be doing while we're having the chat.

And we're going to be doing the actual Clearing. And that's where we really unite and bring in a lot of other aspects of ourselves to facilitate this transformation.

Right now we are really, really ready for this. I know that this has popped up at various times some years back, but it was only just a notice that it's there. But it was never really in a position to be addressed, actually, and clear up...and that's recent, really recent. Because even a few months ago it wasn't ready. So here we are!

Antonia

Yes. And because this is just a big tie-in to the superimposed matrix that has kept humanity locked into a 3-D world, we talked about the fact that this is not about the financial debt...because that's not even the tip of the iceberg. This goes back to humanity feeling this debt and shame connection. Many people know about what is sometimes referred to as the "fall from grace" or the "fall of man." And Franco and I were talking about the fact that, especially in the Judeo-Christian tradition, it's Eve, it's the woman, who represents creativity, and that brings on this shame, this "fall,"...that we're in debt to God and we have to pay through suffering. And we've been living in fear and pain and we're always in shame. So it's a really big, old one.

As Franco said, we did look at a while back and it just wasn't ready to be worked with. And now is the time...now is the time because we've cleared a lot of other stuff so that we could get to this point...and it's a big one.

And we know that we have a lot of stuff coming in January and February, and I think that this Clearing is a big part of what will assist in accelerating shifting in so many areas.

So, Franco, why don't we talk about how old and how far back to the beginning...or let's say the beginning of the agreement, really...that this debt, fear and shame combination came in. What is it, how has it served, and why is it there?

Franco

Well, anything that we create is an experience. Anything put into any form of structure or anything that we utilize in any way, shape or form serves, because it either serves to expand us on a direct basis or it creates a polarity from which we can expand.

So when we started looking at this whole thing about debt, it has come from hundreds and hundreds and hundreds of thousands of years ago in a sense, because there have been a lot of different forms...it hasn't been consistent. The one that we've been experiencing on the planet here in this particular incarnation and in this particular series of physicalities, that debt is only about ten thousand or so years old. And that was just a reactivation of an old, old program from before and had more added to it. But it actually goes back even further to the time of Creation.

But when that came about it was not so much of a debt, but rather it was more of a commitment in the sense that, "As I go out to play, as I go out as Creator Essence in different forms to play, I have a responsibility (rather than a debt). A responsibility to utilize those capabilities for the advancement of the Whole."

Then sometime later it got changed into a sense of responsibility. But the sense of responsibility wasn't in the form that we understand responsibility. It was more of a responsibility in the sense that it was a genuine thing that you did. "OK. This is my role. This is what I'm going to do. I'm going to play and do what I need to do, and use my creative abilities to experience and create alternate realities and all this stuff so that I can advance as a Whole.” So it was more in that sense.

But the debt part of it and the other forms that came about later...that was when the whole idea of separation and so forth started to come into play. And, again, it was to emphasize the fact of being in a state of...it goes beyond separation...but in a state of where you are nothing and you need to earn yourself back into something. But that’s how it was created as an interpretation. But that was never the truth.

The truth is that you were always Whole and you’ve now created the illusion that you are not Whole...that you are separate and you go out and experience it that way. And as you experience and you have whatever you create within it, you become, not only experientially rich but also you start to recall your Essence and you go back into that state of knowing what you started off being.

But as it is today and as we’re looking back...and as it streams back...if you’re looking into the religion-based parts, one of the key things...and I’m going to look at what we still have active within ourselves and then we’ll bounce back and forth.

Within our self, it doesn’t matter if we are religious or non-religious, at this point in time. We still have the genetic imprint that was put into place that we owe something outside of us. We owe something that created us. So we are actually in debt to God and, in some cases, we are in debt...if we’ve taken on a certain lineage...to Jesus or some other form of deity that came onto the planet, because they had done something for us and now we are in debt to them. For example, some people believe that Jesus died on the cross for our sins so we are in debt to him...even though that is not true. But that was encoded and carried forward.

The fact that we exist and were created, we are in debt to God, or what we call Source at this point in time.

But these, again, were all imprinted in to create further separation and to create certain experiences of having levels...there is the Creator and we are the created. When, in actual fact, we are ourselves the Creator, and we are also the Created and the Observer of our own creation...we are all of that anyways. But it got separated so that we are the creation.

But because we were created, because we were given life we owe the One who gave us life. And not only do we owe them, but we have a debt to pay and that debt means that we have to follow all the rules. We need to earn justification for our existence. And that created lots of different experiences due to the fact that we’ve given so much power to the fact that there’s something outside of us that we feel unworthy of. Because that’s where the other part came in,

So when we go through that...and it’s played out even today, if you’re looking at it...the followers of religion and many who are not religious, in a sense, carry that...some unconsciously and some consciously and some both...on different levels that we have this still playing out.

For example, you mentioned women. And one of the things that's a huge shame that women carry is that the woman was given the "power"...and this is how it's interpreted and how it was encoded with the modification...the "power" to give life. But...it's giving life through another source. And the claim that life came through you, in a sense, was shameful...because, "You cannot give life! You are the created...and you can only facilitate the created...but you are not a Creator." So there was a lot of shame in a woman being pregnant and going through all of that. And even inasmuch as that doesn't play out on the surface and in the conscious mind...it's still very deep inside. It's almost like you've violated...the fact that you've taken that capability of producing life. But, in actual fact, that was just encoded in that way.

So a woman walks around and carries the whole idea of shame because of the idea that she does something that only God is supposed to be doing. As weird as that may sound, that does exist. And when you start looking at it, it's interesting how that is in place.

But, again, that still serves.

The same thing with children and whatever else...the fact that there's a debt there. Because a mother and father was responsible for a child coming onto the planet, then the child was in debt to the parents. And this was true even long ago in the times when you had children, and the children were supposed to stay with the parents and they owed them for their very life. And there was a debt carried forward in that regard.

The interesting thing is that with the debt came fear. And fear, at that point in time was, in a sense, if you didn't pay the debt then something would happen to you or that there would be such a dishonoring that you would be banished or something of that nature.

And this is why the whole idea of being loved or unloved has so much power...and the fact of the illusion of being loved or not loved, accepted or not accepted...or to be alone...and accentuates that aspect of it...where we have that fear. So if we are not doing our part then we will not be accepted. So this is why we act in certain ways and try to appease other people, so that, in a way, you are almost compensating for that debt. But if you don't, then the fear kicks in, "I'm not going to be accepted. I'm not going to be loved." And that gave it more power.

But, in actual fact, all of this is just part of the illusion that we've created as part of our separation and as we moved into it...and now we are coming to that realization.

So what this debt part is...and this is one of the other reasons we have the experience that when someone does something for you that somehow you are indebted to them and that in some way, "I have to compensate them." But it's always compensating more. Because there's such a powerful energy of feeling debt...or feeling in debt...that if you are in debt then you need to feel ashamed...you need to be in shame.

And with shame there is also the concept of fear because, within that, you would be ostracized by others.

So this is all in the program in itself.

And this is one of the reasons that the financial systems and so forth have been able to utilize this control structure where we create a debt. And, not only that, but if we have something that's given to us, then we not only have to give back what was given but we have to give them more. And this is why the whole interest thing came about and that's how it ties into the financial aspect of it.

But like you say, Antonia, the money aspect of it is miniscule in the whole picture of this concept.

The thing is, the fact that we live on the planet, we are in debt to the planet. We live in a country and we are in debt to the country. And when I say "in debt" that means that we "owe" the country. And this is the reason why we go willingly to fight wars because we have to honor and respect our country and this and that. That we are indebted to anyone and everyone who takes on any position at that point in time.

So as you move along, it's all inter-connected...it's like a web because it goes deeper and deeper and deeper into it. But right now, because of the changes that are taking place, this has been a very powerful obstacle for many people.

And, the thing is, when we feel that we owe someone and we feel that we are not capable of repaying, it does create fear because it feels that we are now disconnected from Source Itself...from the Source of life...from even being able to have that part.

So as you can see, it has interfered with our journey. But, again, there was still servitude for us because, at this point in time, we get to see the opposite of it...our True Essence and non-True Essence and how it brings us back.

Antonia

We had a question about, "What if you don't believe in the 'fall from grace' and what if you don't owe anyone anything?"

It's funny because when this topic came up, we're talking about veils and belief systems and deep, deep, deep belief systems within society. If you look back over history people have always felt, as Franco was saying, a debt to something. And that brought in all the survival mentality.

When we're All That Is...we're really All That Is.

And that was also a big part of keeping humanity contained within the 3-D world where we were experiencing separation. Because here we are entirely Whole, and all of a sudden the only way to cut that is to feel that, "Oh, we're not Whole anymore...we owe something." And because we're not whole and the other thing is whole, then we owe him or her or that. And it's at the core of many things...of many human experiences. And that's why it's come up now because as we lift and release this within ourselves...just by becoming aware of it you are already shedding light onto it. And when you lift it within you, then that's what helps everything else fall.

First you have to work out the internal aspect, and then the external...the society, the banking system, the governmental system, the legal system and so on...dissolve. Because there's nothing left energetically to keep them going.

And that's why it's an important aspect to address this within yourself. Because otherwise you're just dealing with the fears and the feeling of being in debt to someone, to something. And then there's the shame if you can't pay back that debt.

And that's fine...this is all part of the game that we agreed to play with in order to allow us to experience separation to the max. But, right now, we've done that...it ended December 21, 2012...we concluded that cycle. And this new cycle is just bringing more stuff to light, bringing more stuff to light so humanity gets lighter and lighter.

And sure, there may still be some chaos out there, but there is so much stuff going on behind the scenes.. People themselves are waking up and asking questions. So, for now, on a physical level, for a lot of people waking up is the whole debt to government and the legal thing. People are questioning it more and more...and it's a beautiful tool! It's a beautiful tool to start awakening and asking questions like "Who am I?" and "This doesn't make sense!"

And what we're doing with this Clearing is we're going deep into the roots, deep into the energetics of it. We're going to remove these agreements and we're pulling them out. And, as we do this, we assist the whole of humanity to shift.

Franco

Absolutely. And the thing is too...like you mentioned...even if we don't believe, it is encoded within ourselves. Because it's programmed right into the genetic encodements from the beginning. And the fact is that if you're in a physical form, you've carried it. And if you were in a state of complete enlightenment and your frequency was completely different, then that code would not be active. But with the majority of people, it doesn't matter what you believe or don't believe at this point in time, that code is still quite active within.

So, in a sense, inasmuch as someone said that somehow, "I don't accept this. I don't believe this. I feel free!" in fact, that kept us from feeling totally free.

Because when you feel free you feel that you are on an equal basis with anything and everything that exists...even to the level of the highest form of your expression as a collective...being Source Itself. Once you see that you are the actual pool of It All...

Because sometimes when people talk about, "I feel drained energetically," and so forth, that is still playing behind the scenes. Because, in a way, we may feel at times that we do not deserve to have more because we haven't done enough. So that we even allow a cutting off of the energy flowing through us. (laughs) And as much as that might sound like, "What???" many people do feel a lack of energy and vibrancy and so forth. And that is a form of feeling that it has not earned, in one way, the connection to stay open fully so energy can flow.

And if there is some form of shame in having energy... Say a facilitator...someone is doing assistance on other people...and sometimes the facilitator feels that it has been gifted the opportunity to assist another Soul...another aspect of itself...and when it's doing the work, because it feels that it's assisting, in a way sometimes it may feel that it's not doing enough so then it continues to direct energy but then it shuts off its own input...or at least restricting it until it can feel "adequate" to receive more. And this is why a lot of facilitators end up feeling very weak or get depleted in one way or another. Again, it goes back to allowing that energy to flow because of the fact that you feel you did not earn it, should not be receiving it or then, "I'll be indebted to something because I'm receiving energy."

And even with the people who are receiving the energy from the facilitator...sometimes people talk about energy exchange and stuff like that. And that, again, is another part where we feel indebted to someone for facilitating us or something of that nature...and now we have to do something in return. And if we feel that we don't have the capability to return in the same volume, then we start rating, "OK, they did a lot for me and I don't have a lot to give to them." So now they go into two states: One is that, "I'm in debt to them," and second is that, "Now I feel ashamed because I can't give back whatever." But that's just the encodement.

Because, in actual fact, the True Nature is, first of all, we share without any monitoring of what is being done because of the fact that you're sharing back to another aspect of yourself...which is connected to the Whole...which is connected to you. So the energy is constantly flowing regardless...no matter if we create any physical exchange or even what we would consider a favour or whatever it is and you do for each other.

So this whole idea of energy exchange still creates this whole idea of separation. And still reinforces debt. Reinforces that we owe. And if we can't pay, then we have to fear. And we have to feel shameful.

As much as it is subtle at times, it does go in to many areas.

But when we understand our True Nature and the True Nature of everything...because this is what we're going to be playing with...as long as we are carrying the idea of debt or the energy of fear that comes with that or feeling the energy of shame, we're still going to be playing out that old modality that we have adopted as part of our experience...but now we're done with.

Up to this point in time it was still necessary. And this is the reason why it wasn't coming up before because it wasn't ready to be addressed. But now it is ready to be addressed.

Even though not everyone is ready, at least we are clearing it up in the energetic field and we are also clearing it up in the collective encodements and we're also clearing it up in the genetic code. So we're allowing that to be cleared so it's not rigid and a default operating system behind it. So we are removing that. And then we utilize whatever part of it we choose to utilize just to complete our lessons, complete our experience and then it will be easy to dissolve. Even to the point where you don't need any effort to let it go, because it already kind of has let go at the Soul level...because this work will be done at the Soul level.

Because the Soul has been carrying this whole thing about debt too. It's not that it's unconscious...it was an imprint that was left behind for eons and eons of lifetimes that we've had. Each lifetime that we incarnated we owed the Emperor, we owed the King, we owed other people, we owed God...and we were in debt all the time. And if we checked out and left the physicality and never really created a balance...or what was perceived as a balance at that time...then you carried that...you carried that you were in debt. So now you come back into another lifetime and now you have to project that you have to go into alternate service to sacrifice and so forth.

And this is the reason why sacrifice is so powerfully streamed at this point in time. Because sacrifice is paying a debt. And when we sacrifice our life for someone else...it's not that we are paying a debt to someone else, we are, in a sense, paying the debt to the Creator Essence...or what we call Source Itself...or God...or whatever of that nature...or any deities or levels of deities that were labelled at any point in time. So by sacrificing we were now earning...and that's the reverse part of it...now we were "earning our wings," we were earning the opportunity to go further. So there's all of that tied into it.

But our True Nature is that we are all part and parcel of the Whole. And that there is no debt. There has never been a debt. We've only carried that along. And there's nothing to be ashamed of because how can you be in any form of shame when, in actual fact, we are the very Essence of Source Itself having these incredible opportunities to experience ourselves in form.

And also one of the things that we carry is that when we come onto the planet we are now in debt to the planet...because the planet has given us so much.

You have to understand that the planet is here for us. The planet is of our own creation...it is an extension of our bodies. And the planet is there to host us and, as we go through our journey, it advances too.

And the fact that we have been (what some people call) "raping" the planet, taking natural resources and so forth...understanding that those natural resources have been utilized in one way or another. But, again, even when the resources are consumed in the form that it is, the planet does not create any lack of it because the planet will re-balance itself in whatever way necessary. So even if we are converting from one form to another, it is still going back into the planet...because it never leaves. Realistically, on a material level, that is just the illusion...because really it's just energy changing frequency so that it goes from one form to another. So, in actual fact, it's always still there...you can't "lose" it.

And even when we go back to some of the old modalities when there were other forms of incarnation on planet Earth...then there were other species of humanity coming onto the planet which were from a different series which were created for other beings from other planet...and they were coming onto the planet and taking resources or minerals or something of that nature...doing harvesting of our planet...or what we call "our" planet...this particular planet...and the harvesting also of resources in the sense of humanity and using them as slaves and so forth. And that illusion was reinforced into debt or that there was an imbalance, and so forth. But if you look at it, we are still in the same pool of energy. So that was all created when that was part of the experience.

And what we're experiencing here is also how it's being experienced in other galaxies and also other universes too. It's not that this is exclusive to us. The whole debt, shame, fear and all of that stuff may have been prolonged and maintained here a little longer and it's taken a denser form or a more restrictive form but, in essence, that was something that existed in all other levels at one point or another. But a lot of them have advanced out of that.

And that's where we are right now...advancing out of that.

So the fact that we exist is of our own creation. We exist because we chose to exist. And we chose to exist and we chose to participate in whatever planet that we chose to participate with...and whatever we choose to utilize within the planet itself is all there...it's all one big pool...and we're just tuning into it. And it doesn't matter...just the fact that you exist...

Sometimes people turn around and say, "Well, there's humans that produce and there are humans that just consume. And the ones that consume are the plague...they are the ones that are causing an imbalance and so forth...because they are not returning, they are not putting back in." But, in truth that is not so.

The fact that they exist, the fact that they are on the planet...the fact that they are present, the energy that they are streaming, whatever they are absorbing as part of the consciousness, whatever they are experiencing, whatever role they are playing and co-creating with others, and whatever role they are playing in accentuating others is all part and parcel of the One Whole Consciousness and the whole Oneness.

That means that every single Soul is advancing no matter what. There is no possibility at any point that anything can exist without it paying a certain role...and contributing to the grander expansion of All That Is.

And you have to understand that the fact that they might be here in this lifetime and not producing what we call in the physical part in the same way, does not mean that they have not done that in other lifetimes. Because all of us have had experiences of playing various roles. So really, there is no accountability.

Even when we talk about karmic stuff...at one point in time when that was very prevalent at the Soul level. Again, it was never about a karmic debt...because I've heard that before (laughs) that "there's a karmic debt...if you do something in one lifetime you have to pay for it in another lifetime because you have to create all this balance." But even that was an illusion. That never existed. There was never a debt in regards to karma...or otherwise.

And, again, as I've explained in past times, the sole purpose of the Soul was just to experience one side of an extreme to another and to create different roles to experience variety and nothing else...there was never a debt.

So you could turn around and say, "Well, in one lifetime I was the victimizer and in the next lifetime I would choose to experience the victim." But there was no debt to pay. It wasn't the fact that, "I killed a thousand people so now I have to go through the suffering of dying a thousand times or feeling the pain of a thousand people that have checked out," or something of that nature due to the hand of one person, as an example. It has nothing to do with that at all.

Because in our Truest State, we are just playing roles here and each role that we have taken on has created different experiences for us to grow.

Now even with what we could call the "negative" roles...they did not create a debt in any way, shape or form because the role was just that: a role.

And especially when you are coming onto a planet of experience where you are a prominently experiencing (what you could call) a polarized way of life, then you need both sides...if you want to experience it, you need both sides. And the fact that one chooses one side and another chooses another side and back and forth...cannot, from the perspective of Pure Essence choosing to experience, start creating debt or start creating imbalances.

Regardless, even when the Soul was trying to create a balance between one extreme and another, it was just so it had both sides of it. If it didn't accomplish the balance, it didn't matter because it would be able to access whatever was necessary to fill in the gap of whatever was missing.

For example, 25 years ago at the Soul level we cleared the whole idea of karma. Period. So now there's not even any balancing.

Look at it this way...look at all the Souls right now in the last 25 years...close to 26 years now...in the last 26 years have not been balancing their Soul...have not been utilizing the karmic balancing system that was set in place. Now that means that every Soul is off balance...every Soul is not in alignment anymore because it's not creating both sides of it. So you could look at it and say, "OK, so how do we fix that?!" Well, there's nothing to fix. Because basically, at this point in time, it's just taken out of the equation..."I don't need to do both sides. I'm just going to be completely fluid and I'm going to get whatever I need no matter what. Because whatever I feel that I'm missing in one experience I can tune into another aspect of myself and fill the gap that way. I can utilize it and stream it through my own consciousness and whatever level of frequency that I operate within and I get exactly what I need....if I need to create completion of that part of the puzzle that I'm playing." And it's very powerful in that respect.

But there was never any imbalance.

Again, it all relates back to the whole idea of balance...because that's what debt really means.

But if you look at the system, too, it was designed, in a way...the financial system or any system...so there is no way you can pay off your debt. Because no matter what, one part of you is going to be in debt or many parts of you are going to be in debt.

For example, if you use the monetary system and you borrow money from a bank or other financial institution...now you've just borrowed some money...but it's not the fact that you're "paying them back" ...you not only have to pay them back but you also have to pay them interest. But, at the same time, what happens is that you are paying this interest back by doing some other efforts where somebody else is borrowing money and they are paying interest, and so forth. And, if you look at the system, the way it's designed right now, the debt far exceeds...by hundreds...perhaps thousands of times over what possibly could ever be in place...because there is no accountability or, in this case, any provision to compensate for the interest alone...or the fluctuation in the prices or inflation or anything of that nature. None of it exists.

So, in actual fact, you would be in debt no matter what! There is no possible way that everyone on the planet can clean up the debt...period...it's impossible! Unless you turn around and allocate a bunch...and then you have to say, "Well, it's coming from somewhere." Remember...it's all coming from the pool...regardless...it's all coming from the same pool of resources.

But then you could turn around and say, "Well, we have all these institutions that are making money out of thin air!" (laughs) Well...what isn't out of thin air? Everything just exists because we created it. Even the expression of our being in a physicality is just taking from a pool of energy that is just Pure Potentiality and Pure Spectrum of Light and Consciousness, and then we are just projecting a physicality and projecting everything that's around us. But it's still out of nothing if you had to look at it.

But then, is it really nothing? Or is it a pool of Everything That Is from which we can create?

But, at the same time, we can govern how much of that pool of energy...but the energy from that pool is never depleted because it doesn't go anywhere. The pool can expand, in a sense, because its band of frequency increases...but it can't go anywhere because it's always the same.

It's like taking a big blob of plastacine and you can start molding different shapes and whatever else. But once you don't want that anymore you put that back in the pile...but it's all from the same pile...you just take so much each time. The pile isn't going anywhere and you always have the same amount that you can play with, and you're always within that same range.

Regardless...there is nothing out there that does not contribute in one way or another in whatever creation or expression that exists.

It's all part of The Whole.

In saying all of that, you take Source Itself...if we have to go back to Source and say, "We owe Source" Well, in essence, Source owes us...because we are the brave aspects of Source that went out there and braved the illusion to create and experience itself...in a limited body...for the grand purpose of what? Expanding Source? Expanding The Whole? So who owes whom? If you had to look at it in a polarized state...well, Source created us but Source also sent us out to play. And we went out to play for what purpose? So that Source could be entertained? So Source could expand? So Source could see what else it could do? So if you look at it that way, then who owes whom? (laughs)

There is no owing because it's all One. It doesn't matter if Source expands or if we expand...all of it expands. And that's the beauty of it. So it crashes anything that we've taken on before thinking that, "We owe." The thing is, we are all playing roles. And each role facilitates the Whole.

I've used the analogy of a big painting. And the painting is of a beautiful scenery or something. Each and every single stroke...even if we go to a photograph...or a pigment of color or something like that...each dot, each pixel, each little stroke is part of that whole picture. And it doesn't mean that one stroke is better than the next or one pixel is better than another. Each pixel contributes to the whole. And each pixel is necessary to complete the whole...especially if we're trying to complete some scenery.

So when you look at it that way, when you actually understand that that's how it truly is...then who is in debt to whom? No one is in debt to anyone. That was an illusion that was made up while we were trying to experience ourselves as "less than" and separate from something.

And also when we created hierarchy...because that was a creation too...and there was always a debt owed to each level of hierarchy. The first level of hierarchy is that we owe to our parents, and our parents owe their parents, and their parents owe their parents...and on and on. But it doesn't stop at just your own parents, but you owe your grandparents...and on and on one back in your ancestry. So it just goes on and on in that regard.

And then you go into the different levels of consciousness. So even at the Soul level you can turn around and say. that there's the Soul, then there's the other half of the Soul, then there's our Soul Family, our first level of OverSoul, then there's a second level of OverSoul...and going on and on and on...right back to Source. So now you've created all these levels of hierarchy.

We can also tie in the hierarchy of other beings that were involved in creating these physicalities, so we could say that we owe them.

But the reason that any other aspect of ourselves created another aspect, was just to create another level of expression so that it could advance itself. It's self-serving in a way...but it's self-serving to all of it...because we are all It...we are all One.

So that's a little dance that we've played whenever we've look at debt.

And it was a very powerful tool to create the illusion of enslavement. And disempowerment was huge with that. Because if you look at it, the moment that you owe someone you are a slave to them. So what better way than to emphasize that so that you can create fears and other levels of separation and servitude and so forth. And, of course, as we created that we are in debt. (laughs)

And, of course, if we have a government we are in debt to the government because they are providing for us and so forth. In actual fact, there is no truth to that at all and never has been.

So you can see how elaborate all of this is.

And each layer has served magnificently. But now each layer is being released in the sense that we do not carry that imprint any longer...on all levels. So this is not being cleared just at the mind level...it is being cleared at all levels...in the imprints of the genetic codes and also the DNA, it's also being cleared in the collective consciousness, and it's even being cleared in the matrix.

You see, the original matrix...the organic, original matrix that existed, did not carry that part of it in it. It did carry it to a certain degree in the sense of a very light way of expressing it, but it never carried like we have been experiencing.

You have to look at it that the original matrix that was put in place was a link to all the other matrixes and it was a very beautiful exchange that was occurring...not an exchange because it had to equal anything...you have to understand...the exchange was a natural exchange of allowing each of the matrixes to upgrade.

When you are working on a holistic level where we are all One, then it's very natural to share with other aspects of yourself because, as the other aspects of yourself advance then you advance too. It's a given...it's a natural. You don't even look at it and say, "Well, I gave this much consciousness and I need to receive something in equal part," or anything of that nature.

So the original matrix...the one that's still in place...the organic one...that one didn't have that imprinted that in that same form...it was something that was an experiential thing, but it was very minimal...the foundational aspect of it didn't have any existence.

The inverted matrix...the superimposed on that was put into place...which we have been running off of for the last 10,000 or so years...that one was completely imprinted with debt...so basically complete enslavement.

And that's why money became so powerful because the more you had of it, the more power you had. And the more money you had the less of a slave you were...in a sense. So the idea was for people to be in debt to you but never to be in debt to anyone else...and that created a whole other spectrum of experiences.

So when we're changing this, we're actually changing it in the superimposed matrix so that we can start to be more prepared to step into the original matrix where it doesn't exist...so then the original matrix won't seem so foreign to us, and it will be a gentle hand-off from one to the other.

So that's the work that we're going to be doing in that regard. So all the Souls that are coming together tonight and others that are going to be coming together whenever they play with this...we will all be participating to change this. Because we are all connected to the collective here. We've come here right now because we have never been as ready as we are now to let this one go.

And it is a big one! And it has been big for a long time because it has been around for a very, very long time.

So it brings us back to a balance, in a sense...it's really not so much of a balance but rather a re-connection to a holistic...and when I say "holistic" I mean the Whole...becoming One with the Whole.

And not only One with the Whole, but we are also equal with The Whole. So there is no "less than." There never has been, but we have created the illusion and carried it in the encodements and energies before...but we've always been...it's not that this is something new. We've always been, not only completely whole, but equal throughout. Each facet of expression is equal to the Whole because it is part of the Whole. And each facet of it...no matter what that facet does...it's expressed within the Whole Itself...so it's all one in that regard.

Antonia

You know, there's a huge community of people out there who are standing up through their actions and saying, "No!" to the system...whether it be the financial system or the legal system...but look at how many people are just saying "No!" with their protests and uprisings, and people realizing that their mortgages and credit cards and loans...and people are just standing up and saying, "No!" And that's shaking things up big time.

But sometimes when you get started with that, as we've talked about before, there's a lot of fear and there's a lot of conflict. But always remember that we have all agreed to do this at the Soul level...every person that you're playing with has agreed to serve you...with Love.

So why don't we address how to be and how to go through the transition in a more peace-centered and whole, Oneness way. And, of course, the Clearing is what this is for.

Franco

Yes. There are so many people now that are looking into all of this now. And the financial area is huge because it has been a very big part of our experience. And, like you said, we're all playing roles and were all assisting each other through all of this.

Now with the people awakening and seeing what we call "fraud" and all these levels that have been created with all these ideas and concepts with what's really taking place with corruption and whatever else...you have to understand...it existed...and it's still in existence, but it's dissolving at the same time... to give us the opportunity to really experience that level of separation, enslavement, disconnection and feeling that we are controlled by something outside of us. And that we need to fear that if we don't have money then we can't survive. And the fact that the people who have the money not only have power over us...and not only do they have power over us but we are slaves to them. And also the fact that if we are not doing exactly what they are saying, then they have power over us with respect to how we can look after ourselves, or whether we will have freedom or not, or anything of that nature.

As much as there's all this emphasis with all this stuff that we have in place: that we are in debt to the government, we're in debt to the financial institutions, we're in debt to our country...and we're in debt on so many different levels here...as we are coming to the realization that it is all an illusion that has been created to restrict us, people are going back and saying, "Well, no. We don't want to participate with this."

Now the thing is...what's key here...the most powerful state to be in...which you will feel as we go along...is not to go in and see that whatever role is being played and whatever institution and whatever part of us that is in a certain position to play a specific role...there is no right/wrong, good/bad about it. We need to stop judging.

We're not going to go in there and judge the fact that they are playing a specific role or that we've been involved in the game for so long.

Because, you have to remember that this has been only a game.

And when we are stepping into...some people are going in and looking into the banks and all the governmental stuff that's going on so that they can "free themselves" from the enslavement part. Or the fact that we got labelled as a corporation because of the fact that we have a Birth Certificate...or the fact that we have a Driver's Licence or some other forms of ID that we are now reinforcing that we are some entity of some sort...and to feel that we need to be afraid or that they are more powerful than us or that we are enslaved to them...and to realize that this is only an illusion.

And not only is it an illusion...and I'm not talking about an illusion in the sense of what we project...because everything is a hologram...but we are going beyond that.

You have to understand...it doesn't matter what anybody says or does, or what piece of paper you have or what Certificate you have or whatever of that nature...you need to understand that it was just made up and it does not have any power over you. It is an illusionary power that was created within the game that we've been playing.

But now the awakening part of it is not going in and saying, "No! I want freedom! And I want my papers back! And here's your Birth Certificate! And I've got to crash through and become a sovereign being!" and so forth. Or saying, "I have some legal restrictions and now I have to get myself out of it, or that I owe anyone," or anything of that nature. And seeing it as everyone is taking advantage of you.

You have to understand...they played a role and we experienced ourselves through that role. The same as we also play a role. Because many of us are playing a role on some level or other that is creating some restriction of some sort. You have to understand that coming into that you're looking at it as just a role, first and foremost.

Secondly, nothing outside of us...nothing outside of us...has power over us. We are all equal. We are here to play together.

So it doesn't matter how many forms, pieces of paper or whoever turns around and says, "Well, I have authority over you because you have signed an agreement," and so forth...that actually has no power over you. It is an illusionary part that is being projected until we get to the state where we are so neutral to it that we can look at it and say, "Well, it doesn't matter if I have a Birth Certificate and it has all capitals or it has photos on it or whatever it has on it...that not only does it not represent me but it doesn't mean anything at all." Because there's no authority at any point in time...because there is no such thing...to give it any power. So it doesn't matter if I have it or don't have it. It means nothing. It means nothing. So I am free...and have always been free. And not only am I free but I am equal to you and we are playing together.

So now you go in with the energy of play, with the energy that this is only a game and, of course, it becomes much more powerful when you are dealing with the fact.

Because, you have to understand, if there's any fear or anything coming up that's just part of the programs that you have active in yourself, and you are giving yourself the opportunity to experience them. And then you let that part of them go because you're done with it.

So when you're stepping into any financial institution, you have to understand...you can go in and say, "Well, I'm going to fight it with the legal system," well, yes, that's probably the first part right now because most of the consciousness is still not at a high enough level where... But if you're going in in a state where you're completely neutral, you're completely free on your level where you're not going to go in with fear and you're going in with a knowingness and that this is only a game. And that you are...each one of you...co-creating this...and the only power it has is the power that you are giving it. It doesn't matter what authority is being projected...you are still giving it the power. Because if you don't give it the power, they have no authority over you. They never did and never will.

And to the point where you have absolutely no fear and you are at a point where, "I'm not playing with this any longer," you become invisible. Not only invisible to them but you won't even interfere because you're not even at that frequency to play with them because you are not served by it. It's not necessary. You're done with it. You're outside of that whole thing. It's like going to your radio and you've just changed the channel. So it doesn't matter what the transmission is, you're not in that band to pick it up in the first place. And they can't see you anyway because you are not there.

So we are going there now. And there are more and more people who are stepping into that state.

But the key here is to not see it as corruption...because that's an illusion too. Remember, you have to see it as an equal play and we are all playing a role. There is no good or bad role, they're just different levels of roles. And these roles have created us to experience a certain level of density, restrictions, limitations, and also separation. But as we are completing it and it is no longer necessary, then there is no purpose for it.

So now we can look and it and most people say, "Well, everything is falling apart right now and everything is getting more intense and even crazier." It's only because it's giving us the opportunity to wrap things up and experience a little bit more of it.

When we are stepping into any transformation, we are going to the point of completion...where we are done with that particular experience.

Now I'm not talking about being "done" in the sense of being fed up and, "I'm done and I can't stand it any longer!" It's more like, "I've fully embraced it, I've fully experienced it and I feel completely neutral about it. However, for me now, playing this game any longer does not serve me and is not necessary, so I can gently release it."

It's like going into a relationship and you're in the relationship and there's a lot of fighting and so forth and you finally get to the point where you say, "Well, I'm done with this! I don't want to stay here anymore because I can't stand the pain," and all that stuff. And guess what? You're going to leave there and then you're going to re-create it because originally the only reason it existed was because you allowed it to be there because you wanted that experience to grow.

But when you're in a relationship and you get to the point where you're so neutral no matter what's playing out, and it doesn't matter if it exists or not, then at some point you turn around and say, “Well, I’m done with this particular experience. Now I want to go and have some other form of experience.” And guess what? You can walk away from that experience with complete completion so you don’t have to replicate it any way or any other form, and you don’t need to have unfinished business.

It’s the same thing with this financial aspect...it’s allowing us to finish part of, first of all, feeling disempowered and, second of all, feeling that something has authority over us...

And also feeling that we are a victim...because most people do feel like a victim when we’re in the system...you know, we’re a victim to the government, we’re a victim to the financial institutions, we’re a victim to the medical system, the education institutions, religions, and everything. We feel like we are a victim to all of it. But in actuality there is no such thing as a victim because that’s just a role that we’ve played and it’s a concept that we’ve taken on as part of our play.

How could you possibly be a victim of your own creation? You’re just basically creating it and experiencing it...and once you’re done with the creation and that particular experience, you go beyond that.

So when you are looking at the monetary system, you can say, “OK. I am done with this. I no longer need to play with this,” and you’re completely neutral about it...and you walk into wherever you’re going and you go in with that, you will notice that things will unfold in a very powerful way.

Now, at times, there is an agreement where the collective is not ready for that opening so you may have some form of resistance. But it only really gives you the opportunity to become stronger and clear whatever you need to clear.

Now if the collective is not ready at this point in time but you need to make nudges in it, then you will go in and make nudges in it. You may not make the whole progress that you wanted to achieve, but you’ve done enough of a dent to create an opening. Now you may step back, but it won’t be that you will end up being crucified by it. You are going to make the step and may not still be providing yourself with a challenging time. But rather if you need certain resources, then the resources will flow through. Because you are not going to create something that you do not need. But if it still persists and it’s still presenting, then at the Soul level you’ve decided that you still need it because something else still needs to be completed within yourself for you to advance even further. So the whole dance will support you no matter which way you go.

But the key is to not go in and see them as the victimizers and we’re just the victims and we’ve been corrupted and cheated and manipulated, or anything else of that nature. That is an ego mind observation. That is not a holistic observation.

A holistic observation is seeing that this is a co-creation and it only exists because we have co-created it and because we’ve held it into place.

Because I'll tell you, as we complete the necessity to have these polarities in the financial or anything of that nature, and as we no longer need it as a collective, you will notice that it will all dissolve instantly. It will not be there. It will not be something that you will need to contend with or that we have to re-structure. It will just totally change.

Because, the fact is that we will feel so natural saying, "Oh, we don't need this. We can collapse that. We can get rid of this," and whatever else. And the transition will happen very naturally.

And you will see it in your own life. When you come to a certain completion with something it's so easy to step from one thing to another or to just change the direction in your life...period...because you're not needing it. And there's no struggle or fear or anything of that nature. When you really choose to come to the completion and you come to the full realization that, "Yeah, great! That was a beautiful ride. I really enjoyed it but I don't need it anymore because I'm done with that part because I've completed that part. So, OK, great...change!" And you change whatever you need to change...you can change careers, you can change relationships, you can change where you live or don't live, what status you carry, what employment you have, what you do with the people around you...whatever. You can change anything!

But it will be done so naturally. It's just like, "OK. See you later. I've gotta do this." And that will be it.

So right now the key is first of all to get to that level of clarity and not to see polarity as something real...not to see good/bad, right/wrong or anything of that nature. And to see that, "OK, how does this still serve me? If any part of this doesn't still serve me, then I'm going to take the steps to release myself from it."

And the first part of the release is releasing the self-binding within your own mind construct...that's the first part. And that is the fear aspect...the part where you feel that somehow you need to fight a battle to get to freedom.

Your freedom is always there. The gate has always been unlocked. We just think that we're locked up and something of a higher authority has us locked up in that reality. In actual fact, we have always had the key...and, in a sense, it's always been open anyway. We just never bothered to step out of it because we felt that we needed to stay in our prison or whatever you want to call it...we needed to stay in that restriction for a period of time.

So first and foremost, get rid of all judgment about everything and anything. See everything as a game that is going through transition.

You have chosen to participate in making part of that change, but what you are doing is you're going out to educate, you're going out to share with others, saying, "Well, listen, the money system, debt, and all this stuff...nice little game. We enjoyed it and saw how restrictive we are and we saw how all of it has served in one way or another. But now it's time for us to change all of that. So let go change it and bring up this consciousness."

But you're not going in with hatred or anger or any form of judgement. You see the perfection in all of it. And the change happens only because you are ready for the change because we're stepping into something new.

And when you're doing that, you will also notice that when you're serving papers or doing whatever those little steps are...because we are still in that state where we need some of these steps, because we are not at that consciousness as a collective yet...you're just going in as, "I'm just letting you know." You're not going in as, "Did you know that what you're doing is horrible and we're being cheated! This is corruption! The bank is unfair! Look at what you're doing with the money!" and so forth. No. You go in and say, "Listen. I'm just here to share. I'm just here to inform you what's really playing out and how it's affecting us and how it's affecting you, too...because you're part and parcel of all this..

"We may believe that things are working a certain way and we've agreed to some degree to participate with that. But, you know, right now, wouldn't it be great for us to be free? Wouldn't it be great if we weren't all enslaving ourselves in the same way that we were before? Would it be nice if we had the freedom to have whatever we needed whenever we needed it, and really play a different way in our life? How would you like to do that?

"And I'm just letting you know that this is what's really happening and this is how the system works. And, really, the system has been in place there only because we really wanted to participate in this system. But we have the power to change the system. But the system exists only because we have agreed to let it stay in play. But now we want to change that. So how can we change it? We are in charge of everything that's playing out, so let's take a look and see how we can change this."

Going in that way, you're not going to have the same resistance you would have if you are going in and seeing them as the corrupt SOB's that have ruined your life or have ruined humanity or anything of that nature. Because, in actual fact, even though the ego mind may have perceived it that way, it has served and we have co-created and participated in it completely. There was never anything outside us.

This is what we need to understand: there was never anything outside of us. We participated in all of it.

All the systems that exist, as much as we would like to label them as corrupt or see it as unbalanced or unfair, it exists only because we allowed it to exist and we had agreed to experience that. Now, of course, there is stuff coming to the surface because we no longer need that part of it.

But while we're doing this, there's another part that key to understand...there's another part of us that also need to be explored. And that is that we have judged things and we see things as fair and unfair. That's the first reaction we have when we first discover how the system actually works: we see it as something bad.

And that's an old program too...it's a default. But when you see the holistic part of it, it all served and all of it was all part and parcel of what we've created. And that's the key that I want to state.

If we want to really free ourselves, you free yourself first within yourself...free yourself from your own battles, your own judgment, your own way of looking at things and saying, "Hey, I need to judge. I need to see that there was something wrong done to me." Because when you really understand, nothing could ever be done wrong to you...first of all.

Secondly, you cannot have any experience unless you choose to participate. Even if you looked at the level and say, "Well, I had no choice because the system existed." It may be true that another aspect of you supported it before. But when you come onto the planet, you have agreed to play the game that already existed. You already knew what was here to play with.

And because you're here now, you also knew about the transformation and the capacity of what you can gain from this time as we're going through this change. So you've agreed just because of the fact that you came here.

And now that you're going through whatever you're going through, you have agreed to do so and you have agreed to participate in all of that.

So there's never been anything imposed on you, and nothing could ever be imposed on you. Because at some point you could say, "I'm not going to play the financial game. I'm going to go somewhere that's off the grid and create my own sustainability with other groups of people." So you could do that. You don't need to be within the systems and all that. There are countries that do not have those types of systems...I'm not saying completely...but there are different areas. So, in essence, we have that freedom. We don't need to be anywhere and have any particular experience.

So we are here with all of this playing out because we have chosen to be here.

So you have to understand: we have never been a victim. We have chosen to play a role...on one side of the fence or another...it doesn't matter. We decided to play the role. Now we are completing the role...some of us are still in completion format...and then you transform from that...you shift from that.

So you never go in in a disempowered state. You are always empowered.

Basically, if you look at it in a spiritual sense, you are All That Is. Each and every facet outside of you is just another facet of you that you are projecting. And they are playing exactly the role that you're creating. It's your movie. You're directing the movie and you are playing a role in the movie. So not only are you an actor but you are also the director. And as the director, you are directing all the other Souls that you have given power to play with you. So each person is projecting their own movie. And they are all interchanging and they are all learning from each other.

So here we are in this beautiful transformational time, and we are stepping beyond anything that we've played with before so that we can create a completely new reality.

And as we step forward, guess what? This whole debt idea...

Once you get into a higher state of consciousness, which you are working on, you will see that it never, ever, ever, ever really existed. Once you tune into Who You Truly Are, it never existed because there never was any such thing.

Shame? No such thing.

We are just a beautiful expression. We can change and be whatever we choose at any point in time. This is our True Nature.

The whole idea of fear is just an illusion. Fear what? Fear ourselves? That's basically what we're doing. Even if we're fearing something that we've created as an entity that appears to be outside of us...a deity or whatever...it's just another aspect of ourselves. So we are fearing our own self, we are fearing our own created dream. There's no such thing as fear. It's just an illusionary part that we've created. But we're afraid of what? Of our own creation? Once we realize that it's our own creation, then, "What am I afraid of? I can change and be anything and experience anything." But, at the same time, why would I be afraid of my own creation, my own illusion, my own light stream that I've projected in front of me? I here to play. I'm here to have fun. I'm here to learn. I'm here to become a grander aspect than when I started. This is my playground and schoolyard amongst many that I have."

Walking in that state of empowerment, guess what? Your world transforms. And that's what you're doing: you're re-empowering yourself.

And when we talk about re-empowerment, we've created the illusion of disempowerment, but we are actually empowered....and always have been. So are we getting re-empowered? Just remember that we have always been empowered.

Remember: we are Everything That Is. We are Source Itself expressing ourselves in a physical form.

So when we are going out there, we are playing. When we are playing with the different institutions and so forth, we are playing our role. We're not the saviour or the one who has to tear it down. We're just educating, expanding, we just bringing a higher consciousness and a higher realization.

Because the world only exists because there's a certain level of consciousness that we have been holding onto as a collective. As the collective consciousness shifts, everything shifts. So all we are doing is assisting other aspects of ourselves to raise their consciousness...as we are raising ours at the same time.

I'll tell you one thing with respect to having a higher consciousness: the whole illusion of having money and having all these other limitations and structures, institutions and control systems and things of that nature...they don't exist. The fact that in our Pure State, we are completely balanced and harmonized with each and every one of us. Each of us is playing a specific role, with the full freedom to be fully ourselves...Who We Truly Are...in each moment.

In this environment, the planet is now truly what it is there for...to support our experience. It is there to provide us with everything that we need, as we provide what everything else needs. And it's done, not through earning or anything of that nature. It's just being ourselves here so that we will have full access to anything and everything.

Because if you really look at it...the fact that you stepped on the planet, you are now part of the planet. Even though it's a projection, we are part of that projection and we are completely whole with that projection. The fact that you are on the planet, you have access to anything and everything that's on the planet. And the planet is a reflection of what you have within yourself. So it is all part and parcel.

Even if you have to look at it on a basic, elementary level saying, "We're made of the same stuff as the planet is made," the dirt or anything of that nature. So we are part of the element of the light show that we've come here to play with. So we are whole with everything.

So for us to say, "I owe this. I don't owe that. And I need to earn," those are all concepts and belief systems that were created and implanted and put in to experience separation.

But, in actual fact, we are Everything That Is within it. And you have access to everything that exists on the planet.

So once we go through this complete transformation, do we need to go out and earn anything? Not at all. The fact that we're here, we create whatever we need, however we need it and so forth. And then we get into a higher consciousness and we become at a higher frequency and we actually just take raw energy...which is what we are in the pool of...and create our realities in a much more fluid state. And it will be much more instantaneous rather than the delayed version that we're experiencing now. And that is because we are still in the consciousness where we're not feeling ready to have instant creation. So everything is delayed temporarily.

Antonia

Yes. And the important thing is to not get lost when you start waking up. As more and more information comes to the surface, as more and more is shared, as more and more veils are lifted, always stay heart-centered, stay centered in peace and love and Oneness and fluidity.

And I think that now and going into the new year, we know that there will be a lot of shaking up happening. So it will be a really fun ride. And this is how we stay empowered through this incredible shift that we're here to participate in. So I think it's always important to remember that we are Love, we are Light, we are All That Is.

And it's not that the bailiff coming to your house or whoever is in power in the government, we are all doing this together. And we're just playing different roles. And I think that is the important part to remember.

Franco

Yes. And the thing is too, there is no authority. If someone turns around and says, "Well I have the authority." Well, under whose authority? And if you start looking back, there is no authority anywhere.

And like you said regarding the shake-up, the shake-up that we are going through which is basically the systems collapsing and all the other stuff that's coming up...each individual will experience the intensity that they require for their own de-programming, for their own advancement. So even if there's a certain shake-up, each one will experience it to a different degree. Some people will just flow through it.

There's a lot of people right now...and I'm sure you know that, Antonia, as well as others on the call right now...that are saying, "Yes!!! Let it collapse! So that I can finally be free and not have to be enslaved and do these things I don't want to do. Or the fact that I need to struggle to have sustenance in my life or something of that nature," e.g. food, shelter or whatever it is. How many young people and even people who have been on the planet for a while now are really just rooting and waiting for it and saying, "Come on!!! Let's do it!!! Let's let this thing collapse!" And they are waiting all the time and saying, "Just give me the opportunity. Let's take this all down so that we can start playing much more freely."

And then there are others who are basically holding on and saying, "Oh, my God! It's going to fall apart! My world's going to fall apart! How am I going to take care of myself?!" They are still in the fear state and still have the old programs of survival and all of that.

So you can see that there are two sides of it. And it will depend on where we are (how much it will affect us).

So if I had to ask you, Antonia, on a personal level, if all of a sudden all of this stuff crashes, what state will you be in?

Antonia

I keep saying...let's just press the button together!!! (laughs) Let's go!!!

Because I think that humanity will come back together. Sure there may be a smidge of chaos in the beginning but people will start to say, "Wait a minute!"

And that's why it hasn't happened so quickly yet because the control system in place realizes that, "Oh no! If we cause too much chaos, they will discover that they don't really need us!"
(laughs)

So this experience is winding down.

Franco

And we've been staying here in this state in order for all the various Souls to complete whatever they need to complete.

That's it.
